New Roots Herbal's Adrenal is a dietary supplement containing essential nutrients for adrenal gland function. The adrenal is a ductless gland of the endocrine system that is responsible for producing some of the most important hormones in the body. Each gland normally weighs about five grams and is comprised of two parts: the cortex or outer section, which is responsible for the production of cortisone, and the medulla or central section, which secretes adrenaline. The adrenal cortex helps to maintain salt and water balance in the body. It is also involved in the metabolism of carbohydrates and the regulation of blood sugar. The cortex produces a sex hormone similar to that secreted by the testes as well. The medulla of the adrenal gland produces the hormone epinephrine, also called adrenaline, when the body is under stress. This hormone speeds up the rate of metabolism in order to help the body cope with stressful situations. The functioning ability of the adrenal glands is most often impaired due to extensive use of cortisone therapy for nonendocrine diseases, such as arthritis and asthma. Long-term use of cortisone drugs causes the adrenal gland to shrink in size. Pituitary disease and tuberculosis also cause adrenocortical failure.

In conventional medical circles, people suffering from stress are generally diagnosed with chronic fatigue syndrome, though some are given more erudite sounding pronouncements that appear to refer to viruses, like "Epstein-Barr Syndrome" or "Cytomegalovirus." Some are told that they are allergic or environmentally sensitive.

Symptoms range from simple exhaustion to much more complex problems. Stress can be emotional, such as insecurity due to lack of parental understanding and support, fear that a vital relationship is unstable because of a partner's illness or infidelity, worry over one's own health and viability, or concern for the well-being of those dear to oneself. Stress can be job or money-related. One may not like the work or the work place or other people at work; one may not be earning enough to make ends meet. Stress can also be very physical – working long hours, not sleeping well, straining oneself to meet perceived outside obligations –, or sports-related, such as with marathon competitors.
